FARM BUREAU PROGRAM OUTLINED FOR 1922

Oxford County Farm Bureau has outlined for 1922 the biggest program ever attempted by any organization of farmers, and plans are now being made for carrying out this program.

The winter planning meetings will start with Rumford, December 27, and four days a week will be spent by County Agent Lovejoy and Miss Anita Nicholson, Home Demonstration Agent in assisting the various communities in getting their work organized for the coming year. The planning meetings are open to non-members and everybody will be invited to attend.

Oxford County is said to have one of the best Farm Bureau executive committees in the State, and the wholehearted support of this committee and the community committees has enabled the Bureau to not only build up a big organization but to carry out an extensive program of work during the past nine months of active operations.

Among the many things accomplished by the Bureau are included the organization of two cow testing associations which furnish records on over 600 cows, and seventeen boys' and girls' clubs, the members of which made net profits of $1,100.00 and received prizes amounting to over $300.00. In the silage corn project, also, figures furnished by the farmers themselves show additional profits of $4,000.00 from the New York flint corn planted in comparison with other varieties.

The county is 95 per cent organized and the seventeen organized communities are now securing their membership for 1922. Already 433 members have been secured against a total of 264 at this time last year.

Paris leads in men members, having 37 at the present time, while Buckfield has the larger women membership with 35 to its credit.

$6,007.37 FOREST FUND TO COUNTIES

Timber Sale Receipts for School-Road Funds

The White Mountain National Forest timber sales for the fiscal year ending June 30 paid $6,007.37 to the counties in which the Forest is situated, according to a report just issued by the Department of Agriculture. Of this amount $5,542.40 was paid to New Hampshire, and $464.97 to Maine. The States will apportion the money to the road and school funds of the counties in which the Government owns land.

In addition to the funds returned direct to the counties, the Forest Service will spend on roads in and adjoining the Forest $2,402.95, a sum also derived from timber sale receipts. Twenty-eight states in which the Forests are located received a total of $619,922.97 from the Forest funds derived from sales. By act of Congress a percentage of the sales receipts is paid back in lieu of taxes to the counties in which the Forest Service supervises timberlands.

G. A. NOTES

Final examinations will be given next week.

Cleo Brown has been confined to the dormitory for several days on account of illness.

The students selected for the Public Speaking term will present their declamations in the main room at the Academy on Friday afternoon at two o'clock. All friends of the school are invited to be present. The following students will participate: Seniors—Walter Inman, Inez Farris, Edward Hanson, Margaret Hanson. Juniors—Rodney Bartlett, Elsie Egan, Doris Goodnow, Rodney Linnell, Sophie Mores—Taylor Clough, Iella Mores—Freddie Philbrick, Fredman Elton, Cottrell, Earle Egan, Grace Van den Kerkhoven.

MEETING OF DAIRY TESTING ASSOCIATION

The Central Oxford Dairy Testing Association met last week in the Grange Hall at South Paris to discuss various important matters. President W. W. Abbott of Waterford presided.

County Agent Lovejoy outlined in a brief talk what the members should get out of their records and L. E. McEntire, County Livestock Leader, gave a talk on the necessity for the dairymen to become more efficient in the business in order to compete with the prices at which Western farmers can sell their milk.

It is expected that the cost of milk production can be materially lowered through association work.

Mr. Farrar will be remembered by a large circle of friends, as he was for many years the pastor of the Gilead church and often visited Bethel. Although of feeble health he reached the age of 90 years, and had been as one of the family in the Lary home for many years.

DONORS' DAY AT GOULD'S ACADEMY

There was a pause in the regular routine at Gould's Academy on the afternoon of November twenty-ninth in order that the school and its friends might once again honor the memory of Morris Pratt, and express their grateful appreciation for the scores of men and women, who, not only by financial aid but also through service and loyalty have made the Gould's Academy of the past and present, and who are making the Gould's Academy of the future.

The program was varied in its nature. Such numbers as would appropriately challenge serious and reverent thought were interspersed with touches of humor, thus making the occasion a joyous one as those in whose honor it occurred might wish it to be.

The exercises opened with the Victoria selection, Grand March from Verdi's "Aida."

Mr. Hanson, in his usual impressive manner, then explained the meaning of the occasion. The story is one of those which, though old, are always new. For ten years Mr. and Mrs. Charles Millard Pratt have presented to the school on November twenty-ninth substantial sums as a birthday gift in memory of their son, Morris Pratt, and for the past three years they have added other gifts in memory of their daughter, Margaret Pratt Frost. Mr. and Mrs. Pratt in these memorial gifts have rendered invaluable financial assistance to Gould's Academy at a most critical time in its history. Many deserving pupils have also been helped and encouraged by assistance from the Pratt Scholarship Fund—so called.

This annual event first known as the Morris Pratt Birthday has broadened in its significance until now its purpose is to honor the memory of all Gould's benefactors.

Mr. Hanson's remarks were followed by a selection by the Boys' Glee Club.

The town of Bethel is honored in having been visited by the late Franklin K. Lane and while illness prevented his definitely planned visit to the Academy he has left to it, as he has left to all the English speaking world a legacy which is second to none in the realm of patriotic literature. His address "Makers of the Flag," which he delivered before the five thousand officers and employees of the Department of the Interior at Washington, was given by Mr. Hanson assisted by ten boys.

The Twentieth Century Club, founded by Mrs. Gehring, has played a vital part in the social development and enjoyment of the young people who have been privileged to share in its work and play. In fact, it has meant so much to those boys and girls that Mrs. Gehring, prompted by her never-failing desire to help young people, has devised a plan whereby eventually every student of the Academy shall come under its influence. The Club as now organized will be composed of the senior class. After explaining the purpose of the Club Mr. Hanson asked its members to stand and entrusted to their keeping an attractive charter bearing the following inscription:

G. A.
Twentieth Century Club
Senior Class of Gould's Academy
Object
Social Training and Enjoyment
Motto
"To look up, to love, to laugh, to lift"

Officers

President and Treasurer

The Principal of Gould's Academy

Vice President

The President of the Senior Class

Director

The Faculty and Class Officers

Patrons

A Lady Trustee

Hereafter the Commencement Exercises will include the transmission of the charter, by means of some simple and appropriate ceremony, to the succeeding class.

The members of the Club were also presented with attractive badges of royal purple and white, the Club colors. A mixed quartette consisting of Dr. and Mrs. Wight, Mrs. Lyon and Rev. Mr. Achenbach then rendered in a most inspiring manner that stirring patriotic anthem, "To Thee O Country."

In introducing the next number Mr. Hanson said:

"Among the many splendid legacies that have helped to make Gould's Academy what it is are the influences that have radiated from the lives of the thoroughly fine young men and women that have studied and recited, laughed and played within its walls. Among these young people none is more tenderly remembered than the late Shirley Russell of the class of 1906, a young woman of beautiful character, high purpose and wide influence. Personal recollections of Miss Russell will be given by Miss Carrie Wight, a school-mate."

Miss Wight spoke as follows: "Since coming to the Academy as a teacher I have had brought to my mind many pleasant memories of my student days at Gould's."

"Among these recollections perhaps there are none more precious than the memory of my schoolmates. It matters not how numerous our associates may be there are always a few whose friendship we especially value."

"Precious, indeed, to me is the memory of Shirley Russell. I can see her entering the hall with a cheerful 'good morning' for everyone she met. I can see her at her desk about which, during the recess period, were gathered many of her classmates, who knew that from her brilliant mind they might glean the knowledge which would tide them over a difficult recitation."

"I can see her driving through the village and on its outskirts, enjoying, in her quiet way, the messages of the seasons as they came and went. I can see her, as I saw her just a few months previous to her death, roaming the hillside near her Bethel home enjoying the companionship of the birds and flowers. Truly to her Nature spoke a various language."

"I can see her at church—a constant and devoted attendant—seeking the knowledge of Him whom it was her delight to serve in every walk of her young life."

"It is impossible to estimate the influence which a personality such as hers exerts over those who come in contact with it. To me Shirley Russell was one of God's choicest flowers and though plucked just as it had unfolded into its full strength and beauty its radiance continues to shine in this school and in every place where she was wont to move."

Miss Wight then read the following tribute written by Mrs. Gehring as an introduction to the next number on the program:

"The next effort to interest you will be a poem written by a Gould's Academy girl-graduate of a most unusual and beautiful personality. Her brilliant mind and thorough scholarship placed her early in life in the ranks of teachers in the exacting city of Brooklyn, N. Y.—and the great city honored her seemingly untimely death."

"Shirley Russell

"How the beautiful musical name brings before those in Bethel who so well remember her that radiating influence, which awakened keen interest in the best of life—in Nature, in books, in people."

"She was unusual from childhood. She seemed like one of our pure mountain springs that gathering strength sparkled and laughed its way down the hillside always with a happy purpose, till it reached the deepening and over-broadening river upon whose breast was nobly borne the freight of this world's burden—till merged in the Sea of Eternity."

"To you, girl-Christians of Gould's Academy, he told that Shirley Russell was enthusiastically, laughingly, lovingly good—showing that the 'Joy of the Lord' was hers while yet with us."

"The poem about to be given reflects her intimate knowledge and love of Nature from a tiny child—through her study of bird-life. Her wide appreciation of the best poetical literature enabled her to blend bird melody and human personalities into a graceful and unforgettable unity."

"This sweet legacy from Shirley Russell is one of this year's rarest gifts for Donors' Day."

The following poem was recited by nine girls, the first and last stanzas being given in unison and each of the others by an individual girl.

BETHEL

Last Wednesday afternoon the Universalist Ladies' Circle met with Mrs. P. L. Edwards. After the meeting a very pleasing program was given especially planned for those who are soon to leave for the South and West. Mrs. Marshall Hastings' vocal solo was beautifully rendered. Miss Frost's piano solo was in her usual delightful way. Two original poems were read. Delicious refreshments were served. Miss Frost and Miss Dorothy Edwards assisted Mrs. Edwards in serving.

Following are the poems:
At this little pleasant gathering
Of friends all tried and true,
In our small way we wish to tell
Our desires and hopes for you.

As you journey to your winter home
In that far distant clime,
We hope you will remember us

And write us just a line.

And may we not forgotten be
On Wednesday of each week,
A passing thought please give us
And of our Circle speak.

For as we all gather round
And meet from place to place,
We all will note the vacant chair
And miss the absent face.

But our hearts are filled with gladness
And with joy we bid you go
To the sunny sunny Southland
To escape the cold and snow.

May you find new friends and neighbors
Who will fill your days with joy,
And be steadfast, true and worthy
The pure gold without alloy.

When the day comes for departure,
As it will as Time slips by,
We will say with voices tender
God bless you and good bye.

There's a woman we'll miss when she goes out of town;
I won't call any names, but it sounds like Brown;

We will miss her smile, and will miss her voice;
To keep her here would be our choice.

A heart as big as a mountain is hers,
She has just one fault, she wears Summer Furs;

That we'll be forgotten is something
I fear,
'Cause she's going to a place hotter
than here.

Alice Willis is one of the best;
She is always ready to laugh and to jest,
She's a neighbor that's always thoughtful and kind.

If things go wrong she don't seem to mind,
She knows she can always depend on the men

To do any work if she'll only say when.
The distance from us will be many a mile,

The climate no warmer than her sunny
smile,
She'll take our best wishes wherever
she goes,

And we hope she will be where the wind never blows.

Lennie Howe is another we'll surely miss,
With her it is always something like this,

"Let's have a supper and ask the men."

Why she wants men around is beyond
my pen,
She has a way with them all her own.

HIGH LIGHTS OF THE ARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Discussing Future Conferences
The suggestion of President Harding that there be future conferences has met with approval. Foreign Minister Masamune Hanihara, of Japan, is approving Mr. Harding's statement said that his country has come to the conference "in a spirit of candor, prepared to discuss all matters so that causes of future misunderstandings may be reduced to a minimum." While Japan has not agreed to many of the proposals of the conference, its representatives have been more hearty in accord with the proceedings than it was thought they would be. Japan's toes have been stepped on rather hard, and there is ground for hope because they have not squealed very much. While members of the conference have approved the President's suggestion, notes of dissent are heard outside, and the principal note of discord has been sounded by Senator Borah, who says that the continuing of the "association of nations would be the old league of nations under another name." Borah has no use for such organizations, and he maintains that America should "go it alone," and remain free from what George Washington called "entangling alliances." If, however, we must have arrangements for perpetual peace with other nations, Mr. Borah says that he can "see no reason why the 43 nations which have signed the league of nations should be asked to abandon it and transfer their names to an association of nations." Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, who led the fight for President Wilson and the league of nations in the Senate, puts it to see in the proposal of President Harding the acceptance of the league "a sort of rose by another name." But the Republicans of the Capital are quick to point out that the association idea agrees with the plank said to have been written by Elihu Root in the last national party platform. Mr. Root holds, therefore, that talk about the Administration trying to enter the league by the "back door route" is rather far-fetched. Anyway, all agree upon one thing and that is that good results are apt to come from the process of talking things over before the fight begins.

Washington as a Great Forum
Four great powers have postal agencies in China, and if the suggestions brought into the conference are carried out they will all retire from the business of handling the mails and turn the job over to the Chinese. The general American opinion that Chinamen are useful only as laundrymen has been effectually dispelled in Washington, where the Chinese are putting up as strong a case as any group in the field. The Chinese are not only pressing every advantage before the conference, where they are apparently giving Japan the worst of it, but there is not a day or night passes but what some of their delegation addresses a public gathering in the city, and these meetings are attended by the most representative citizens and officials in the Capital. China's principal demand is naturally for territorial independence, and even Japan has been gradually conceding to the insistent demands. Not only do the Chinese hold a prominent place in the center of the stage, but the Capital has been turned into a veritable forum for the expression of the opinion of the diplomats of the world. It is not the custom in Washington for every Tom, Dick and Harry to make a public speech, and very few people will waste their time on those who butt into the speechmaking game in that way. The formula calls for action on the part of some recognized organization—it may be a Church, a Club, an association, or a banquet or dinner party which furnishes the occasion. The point is that somebody who is responsible in the Capital, must act as sponsor for these meetings. The opportunities for hearing the biggest men of every nation are so great in Washington during the conference, that no one has time or patience for the soapbox variety of oratory that counts in other cities.

Many Differences of Opinion

Here is one brand of optimism that the world is feeding on at the conference for the limitation of armament. "It seems to be time for us all to wake up to the new order of things, to take off the old armor of hatred and put on the new armor of good will," said Haruo Kuroki, of the Japanese delegation, who added: "I want to emphasize here the importance of 'mental disarmament' of the peoples of the whole world." Former Senator George Sutherland, chairman of the American Advisory Committee of the conference, upon the conclusion of an audience with President Harding, issued a statement in which he said that the members of his Advisory Committee were convinced that the American people would accept without protest the sinking of great American battleships and cruisers as a part of the contribution to what we have referred to as "mental disarmament." While the very air is filled with the sounds of the cooling of the peace dove, France apparently still wants a fight; and the Italians and the French diplomats have been rather discordant in their statements about the purposes of the standing armies on the Continent. Germany's future has been discussed somewhat in the proceedings of the diplomats, and in view of the progressive liberalism represented in the leadership of German Chancellor Wirth, and the evident disposition of the conference to deal liberally, but conservatively, with the German situation, the hope has been voiced by diplomats that Germany might be brought into the deliberations of the conference, inasmuch as lasting world peace is the aim that is sought. But Viviani, head of the French delegation, has taken steps to block the way towards any such move by voicing his personal opposition, and adding that "unless it means that the powers here represented intend to guarantee the payment of the indemnity to Germany" that such proceeding would be entirely out of order, because "we were invited to Washington to discuss limitation of armament and the Far East. As for disarmament the Versailles Treaty has attended to that."

The War Debts

While no one holds "conferences" about the war debts it is nevertheless a subject which everyone seems to be "discussing"—meaning by that, that the question is uppermost as an unofficial topic, even though it may be in the taboos class for official discussions. The news associations transmit dispatches from Paris to Washington commenting on the "reports" they have received to the effect that "at private meetings during the conference a tentative plan was discussed which would assume a cost of 50 per cent on war debts." Frank A. Vanderlip, the great American banker and economist, has just returned from Europe, and he has a big scheme for refunding the Continental. First, he wants all the European nations to acknowledge that they owe "what they owe" to the United States. Secondly, he suggests that "easy terms" be arranged by which the debts are to be liquidated. Thirdly—and importantly, says Mr. Vanderlip: "I would have America make a grand gesture in international relationships; I would like to see every dollar that can ever be paid to us by our debtors devoted to the rehabilitation of European civilization." Mr. Vanderlip points out that there is not a single nation in Europe that in its own counsels does not frankly admit its inability to pay. He says that they could only repay us in

A MERCILESS JUDGE

One Who Shows No Favor
A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Bethel resident has stood this sternest of all tests.

Mrs. Walter E. Bartlett, Chapman St. Bethel, says: "I feel that I can honestly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and gladly do so. I used this remedy some time ago and the results I received were, in every way, satisfactory and were evidence of the merit of this remedy. I have felt no recurrence of the complaint and naturally I place no little confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills." (Statement given June 12, 1916.)

On September 9, 1920, Mrs. Bartlett added: "Anything I can say for Doan's Kidney Pills couldn't be too good. They cured me of kidney trouble several years ago and that cure has remained permanent. All I said in my former statement holds good today."

their goods—and that if immense quantities of foreign merchandise were shipped into the United States under such an arrangement, it would upset our economic conditions, and do us more harm than good. Then, asks Mr. Vanderlip, why not do the great big thing by expending all this money for the upbuilding of Europe. "If such expenditures were wisely made," he concludes, "the indirect return would be enormous." He points to the prestige America gained in China after the Boxer uprising, when the nation devoted the $37,000,000 indemnity to uplift work in China. Colonel Edward M. House, Henry Morgenthau and William Jennings Bryan are among those who have been throwing their views into the informal discussions at Washington, favoring "upholding the leadership of the world," which they intimate can be helped by using the soft-pedal on the economic octaves in our international tones.

Full of pathos, full of sweetness, In the voice of a young man's song.

Mark! the father's how to manifest How to give and make! and then How to receive and make!— Lowell came to life again.

Beautiful singers, then appeared To the front of chord and king, With the melody notes, long harmonies, Harshly the message that they bring.

Little Peace, sweetly singing Thy sad strain, in one apart, With a voice charming, tender, Then came a melody's heart.

Welcome, Helen, to our homestead, With the strong, martial notes, Echoes of the water's roar, Fall in torrents from thy throat.

Verse, with the voice so tender, Meeter, deep, in twilight heard, With a meaning hard to fathom, Then came our Browning, loved and heard.

Happy little sweet voice in March, Full of life and love and truth, Borne into a bit of a sonnet— Then came our Browning, loved and heard.

Whispered, I am midnight wanderer, Like a foxglove, strange, "Narcissus", then softly called From the forest's deepest lanes.

Herald, with thy noble mien, Lone note of the forest dim, Voice in stately grandeur rising, Then art chanting Milton's hymn.

No we have you, little songsters, Not for your own sake alone, But for voices of loved poets, In each voice, melodious tone.

Nellie Shirley Russell.

The school orchestra under the direction of Mr. Pollard rendered, in a very pleasing manner, "The Dance of the Moonbeams."

The next number was introduced as an object lesson, "What to do and what not to do," and was presented by Miss Morris and Miss Wright who conducted the audience with their visit "At An Organ Recital."

As an introduction to the next number, the recitation of the poem entitled "Work," Mr. Hanson said that the words of the poem were suggestive of the life of Hon. Franklin K. Lane who said just previous to his death: "If I could only recover my health sufficiently to work for my country."

The poem was given most admirably by four of the senior boys, each boy reciting a stanza. As the first boy finished his stanza, he was asked if he would do as well but their satisfaction was complete as one after the other did his part in a manner which displayed great confidence and a fine interpretation of the author's words.

The audience again relaxed into mirth as the farce, "The Stage Struck Girl," was presented by Miss Ols. Hotchkiss, Miss Mildred Hesterman and Mr. Howard. This number was most enthusiastically received and would have received credit on its participants had they been professionals.

Mr. Hanson then spoke as follows: "The serious part of our program today has had to do largely with beautiful melodies as figures that are bound to exert an uplifting influence on the lives of Gould's Academy pupils, but I cannot permit the occasion to pass without mention of one who has the far-sighted wisdom to give living legacies, while he is still here to our midst, to see that such legacies may mean to shaping the lives and molding the characters of the young men and women that are so fortunate as to share these generous gifts. I am sure that every person present will welcome the opportunity to give the glad hand of grateful appreciation to Gould's greatest benefactor, Wm. Bingham, and."

"Cold in the Head"

Is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. These subjects to frequent "colds in the head" will find that the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will build up the system, cleanse the blood and render them less liable to colds. Repeated attacks of Acute Catarrh may lead to Chronic Catarrh. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions. RESOLUTIONS

Death having overtaken our oldest member, Brother Seth Walker, we are reminded that man is born to die. Length of years was surely his portion and he lived well the quiet, faithful life of a Mason. As he exemplified the morally good man, may we learn by his life to cautiously guard our lips from evil speaking, and remember that courteous conduct toward friends and neighbors as well as toward brethren adds much to the welfare of our Order. Be it resolved: That while we mourn the loss of this Brother who was the personification of friendship, may we remember that by his life we have an example worthy of imitation.

Be it resolved: That these resolutions be spread upon our records, and published in the Oxford County Citizen, and a copy sent to the faithful son and daughter, who so tenderly cared for him in his declining years.

RESOLUTIONS

How uncertain is human life, and how true are the words of that ancient writer, when he compared man's permanency here on earth, to the grass that withereth and the flower that fadeth. These words have, to us, a peculiar significance, when we remember how suddenly we have been called to mourn the loss of our friend and brother, M. D. Sturtevant. In his manhood and at the noonday of his usefulness, the scythe of time has cut the brittle thread of life, and we are left to muse on the mysterious ways of the Grand Master of the Universe.

Therefore, resolved: That while we miss and mourn we may remember, and will remember him with all his worthy traits of character, his genial, attractive presence, and his great worth, and while we thus miss him may we all strive to emulate his worthy, active, and busy life.

Resolved: That these resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy sent to the bereaved widow, and a copy sent to the Oxford County Citizen for publication.

I. H. WIGHT,
H. C. ROWE,
A. C. FROST,
Committee on Resolutions.

THE SONG "AMERICA" WAS CLEARLY HEARD THREE MILES AWAY

Not everything in the modern scientific world is materialistic. Here is the story of a wonderful scientific experiment filled with sentiment, and performed in a picturesque setting during a recent conference of Bell Telephone System executives at Yama Farms, near Ellenville, New York.

In the evening quiet of the Catskill Mountains, in the midst of the tree-crested hills and peaceful valleys a Bell amplifier, or loud speaker, had been set up. In preparation for this experiment men with flare torches had been stationed two and three miles away from the projectors. As the sun sank in the West and the twilight came on a Bell engineer stood in front of the loud speaking transmitter in the control room near the projectors, ready to send his voice throughout the country side. The eyes of the spectators were glued on the spots where the listening posts had been established. The hour came. "If you hear me, wave your torch," the engineer spoke in natural voice into the transmitter. Then the amplifying devices took up the tones and threw them out on the wings of the air.

In a second or two—just long enough for the sound to travel through the ether—it came; a red light moved up and down in semaphore fashion.

It was the two-mile man. In another second, another flare—the three-mile man.

Soon after came a phonograph selection, and in a few seconds the swaying lights were seen again across the valley.

The selection was "America" played on chimes, filling the air for miles around.

The spectators stood motionless, but deeply moved. The distant nooks and corners were filled with this inspiring sound, as the chimes boomed out the notes which fit the words:

"I love thy rocks and rills;
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills,
Like that above."

Cancer of the Toe-Nail.
One of the rarest diseases known is cancer of the nail, only four cases being on record. The most recent one is described by Dr. Carlos Chagas of the medical college of Bello Bello Horizonte, Brazil. It is that of a laborer, aged sixty, who had it on the nail of his right great toe. The toe was amputated and the man, apparently cured, disappeared. The toe was examined microscopically and confirmed the diagnosis.

The Reasons are Plain

If you want to know by how great a margin any other security fails to compare with Central Maine Power Company 7 Per Cent Preferred Stock as an investment for Maine people use the following questions as a test:

It is a legal investment for Maine Savings Banks?

It is protected by the supervision of the Public Utility Commission?

Has it paid dividends for 18 years?

Is the Company which issues it at least largely a hydro-electric and thus largely immune from competition, from strike trouble, from fluctuations due to bad and good times?

Is it issued by a company that has grown without interruption for nearly a quarter of a century?

Is its property located in a settled community, among law abiding and conservative people?

Is the security likely to sell for more?

Did the security stand firm in price through the unsettled years of war and of deflation?

Is it issued by a company almost owned exclusively by its own employees and customers?

Is its property of a substantial nature, located near home where it is constantly subject to your inspection?

MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL, DOES EVERY CENT OF THE NET PROCEEDS FROM THE SALE OF THIS SECURITY GO TO WORK AT ONCE TO DEVELOP THE STATE'S GREATEST RESOURCE AND THUS TO MAKE FOR LOWER TAXES AND FOR GREATER PROSPERITY FOR YOU AND THE PEOPLE OF YOUR STATE?

Check up Central Maine Power Company 7 Per Cent Preferred stock by these tests and you will understand why more people in Maine have bought this security than any other save Government bonds.

The Price is $107.50—the yield 6 1-2 Per Cent net.
